With the invention of the steamboat two hundred years ago, the movement of people and cargo was revolutionized.

“Steamboating on

Western Waters”

features items from The Filson’s collection relating to the history and culture of steamboats. From a scaled 1846 model of what is believed to be the General Lafayette to an original profile plan of the Idlewild, later renamed the Belle of Louisville, this exhibit has many items on display, profiling the rich history of steamboating and its enduring legacy.

Please join us for a guided gallery tour of “Steamboating on Western Waters.”

Limited Capacity; Reservations are required.

“United We Stand - Divided We Fall”

Jim Holmberg and Mark Wetherington,
Curators

The Filson Historical Society

Friday, December 9 - Noon

Wednesday, December 14 - 4:00 p.m.

The Filson has one of the finest Civil War manuscript collections in the state, featured along with artifacts in the new exhibit “United We Stand - Divided We Fall.” The exhibit, which commemorates the sesquicentennial of the beginning of the Civil War, will focus on the war in Kentucky and the Ohio Valley region. The exhibit takes a thematic, rather than chronological, approach to the war, starting in the 1850’s and focusing on the growing division between the North and South

The exhibit features artifacts such as flags, weapons, uniforms, dresses, and medical instruments. Among the manuscripts, there are letters, documents, photos, and prints describing camp life, death and mourning, Civil War-era medicine, prisoners of war, communication, and women and the home front. All items displayed belong to The Filson’s collections.

Please join us for a guided exhibit tour at noon. This exhibit is located in the carriage house behind the Ferguson mansion. Limited Capacity; Reservations are required.

Clear as Mud: Early 20th Century Kentucky Art Pottery

Warren and Julie Payne

The Filson Historical Society

Tuesday, December 13 - Noon

Warren Payne, editor of Clear as Mud: Early 20th Century Kentucky Art Pottery, will discuss the book – the first and only history of the subject – at The Filson on December 13. His wife, Julie, who designed the book and did the photography, will also participate.

Struck by the lack of any organized or centralized information about pottery produced in Kentucky from 1900 to World War II, the authors contacted pottery collector/scholars to contribute chapters for the book. This book familiarizes us with the works of potters such as Bybee, Waco, and Hadley.

Clear as Mud won the 2011 Independent Publisher (IPPY) Book Awards Bronze for Best South-East Regional Non-Fiction. It was also the recipient of a 2011 Kentucky History Award for a publication in its class.

Warren and Julie Payne are collectors and private art dealers in Louisville. He is retired from The Courier-Journal, and she is retired from the University of Louisville. Reservations are suggested.

The Filson Historical Society
