Announcement

OF

Courses of Study and Faculty

OF THE

Louisville Summer

Normal

At Buildings of

Central High School

Louisville, Ky.

June 21, July 23, 1920

9526

The Louisville Summer Normal was opened through co-operation of the General Education Board, the Louisville and Jefferson County Public Schools, June 23, 1919, to meet the professional needs of teachers in the city schools and rural schools of Kentucky and neighboring States. The enrollment at this first session was 118, which was the largest number of colored persons ever brought together in the State for summer normal work. In addition to the regular courses taught in such schools, there were classes in Social Service and Household Arts which met the needs of those who were especially interested in those activities.

The session of 1920 will continue the policy of 1919 by offering the most modern course of study and the best faculty of expert instructors obtainable. No summer school in the State or in the South will offer superior advantages to those who wish to improve their professional efficiency or who wish to prepare to meet the requirements of the Kentucky School laws.

A MESSAGE TO THE VOTERS OF LOUISVILLE

from

THE LOUISVILLE MEMORIAL COMMISSION

LOUISVILLE is as proud of her war heroes as any other city, but in a tangible way nothing has been done to honor Louisville's four hundred sons and daughters who gave their lives in the World War.

Indianapolis is to have a $2,000,000 memorial building; Nashville will erect a similar structure, costing $1,000,000; Chattanooga, one-fifth the size of Louisville, is building a $700,000 war memorial.

Can Louisville do less?

A great beautiful memorial hall would be a most appropriate tribute to Louisville's heroes. It would be a community meeting-place, where ties of citizenship and civic pride would be more closely knit, and where the deeds of Louisville's soldier and sailor sons would be perpetuated on tablets of marble and bronze.

Two years ago, while the achievements of Louisville's war heroes were still fresh in our memory, public spirited citizens to the number of sixteen thousand subscribed $200,000 to a fund for a war memorial. A fund of $275,000 raised by Louisville citizens for a public auditorium will be added to this, making $475,000 available, in view of the decision to combine the auditorium and the memorial.

Today, passage of the $750,000 bond issue will complete a fund of $1,250,000 for the Memorial Auditorium. The Louisville Memorial Commission will have charge of the funds and the erection of the building. It will mean to Louisville, first of all, an adequate memorial to her four-hundred war heroes who lost their lives, as well as to the brave thousands who returned to us. To the voters who approve the bond issue it will mean:

A magnificent public building to which we can point with pride and say: That is our "Memorial Auditorium."

A meeting place where thousands of us can get together under the same roof, hear the world's greatest musicians and most notable public speakers.

Municipal concerts, great national conventions, and many other civic and public gatherings.

Remember Louisville's debt to her war heroes, remember Louisville's need for a public auditorium and VOTE "YES" FOR MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM BONDS.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE THINGS AN AUDITORIUM WILL MEAN TO YOU

John McCormack and Galli-Curci at popular prices.

Sousa's Band, where every one of thousands can hear perfectly.

The President of the United States, cabinet members and other prominent men and women visiting us, where all the people can see them and hear them.

Sunday afternoon concerts, instrumental and vocal, at a nominal price. (In some cities having large auditoriums, the admission price is as low as ten cents.)

Thousands of visitors and notables attracted to Louisville by great national conventions.
