

Direc. ons for access of the Courier-Journal newspaper archives on the Louisville Free Public Library Website, www.LFPL.org

These directions were created by Steve Wiser. Any questions, he can be contacted at wiserfaia@hotmail.com.

1. You first must have a library card and a password. If you do not have a library card, you'll have to go to your nearest branch library to get one. You can also self-register here: <https://pac.lfpl.org/polaris/patronaccount/selfregister.aspx>. If you do not have a password, at the top of any page of the LFPL website, click on "My Account". Then in the 'User Name or Bar Code' enter the thirteen (13) number that is on the back of your library card, directly under the bar code, and then click on 'Forgot Password'. A generic password will be emailed to you. You can then change it to one that you create yourself.
2. Note: the library at one time had classes on how to use the Sanborn maps. To find classes offered, visit <https://www.lfpl.org/events>
3. You can navigate directly to the Louisville Courier Journal page here: <https://www.lfpl.org/courier-journal-historical> or follow the directions below to access through the main LFPL site.

On the LFPL.org homepage, click on "Research" and then select "Research Databases"

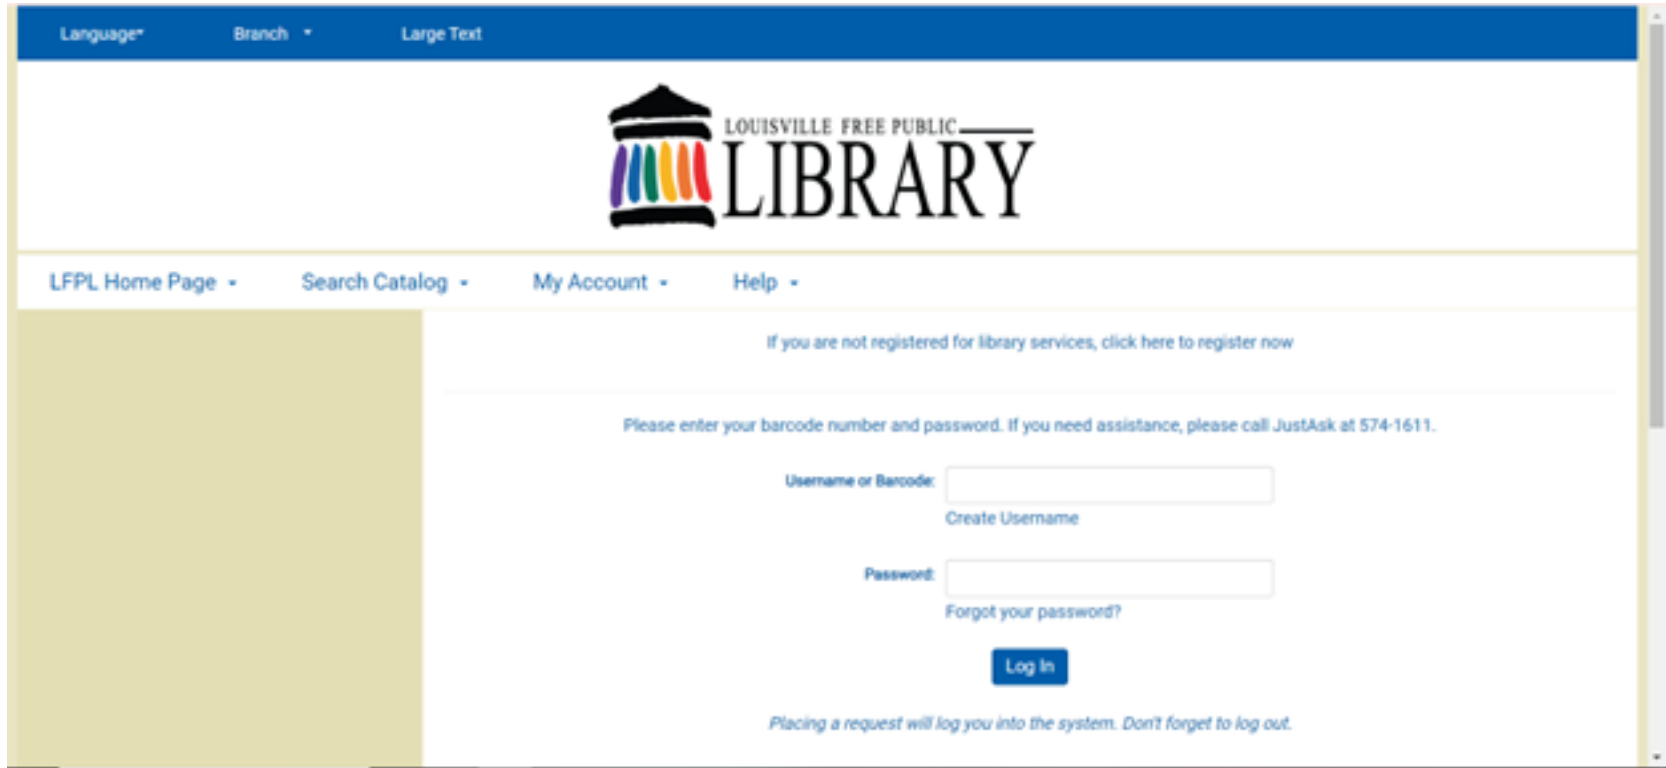

The screenshot shows the Louisville Free Public Library website homepage. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Catalog, My Account, Branches, Get Involved, and Get a Library Card. Below this is a search bar with the text "Search the Catalog" and "Find books, articles, videos, and more...". The main navigation bar is blue with white text and includes links for Borrow, Explore, Services, Research, Lifelong Learning, Events, and How Do I?. The Research menu is open, showing options for Research Databases, Genealogy, Kentucky History Room, and African American Archives. Below the navigation bar is a large promotional banner for a book signing by Jeff Speck, author of "Walkable City". The banner includes the text "REGISTER NOW" and "TUESDAY, MAY 21, 6 PM • MAIN LIBRARY". The banner also features the logos for "Urban Louisville" and "Walkable Louisville".

On the next page, scroll down and to find 'Courier-Journal'. There are two possible selections; the first is for 1999-present; the second is for dates between 1830 to 2000 . For most historical research, you will be using the second (2nd) Courier Journal archives between 1830 and 2000. Click "Access Now" under the correct selection.

The screenshot shows a search results page for 'Courier-Journal'. On the left is a sidebar with a search bar containing 'courier-journal' and a magnifying glass icon. Below the search bar are two sections: 'Subject' and 'Group'. The 'Subject' section has five items: 'Business & Money (1)', 'Community Resources (1)', 'Current Events (1)', 'Genealogy & Local History (2)', and 'Homework Help - Kids (1)'. The 'Group' section has one item: 'Elementary School & Above (2)'. At the bottom of the sidebar are 'Apply' and 'Reset' buttons. The main content area is titled 'Research Databases'. To the right of the title are four dropdown menus: 'Display' (set to 50), 'Group By' (set to None), 'Sort By' (set to Title), and 'Order' (set to Ascending). Below these menus, it says '2 results found for "courier-journal"'. The first result is 'Courier-Journal', with a description: 'Contains searchable, scanned articles from the Courier-Journal, covering the years from 1923 to 5 days prior to today. For text-only coverage from 1999-present day, use UG Newsstream.' Below the description is an 'Access Now' button. The second result is 'Courier-Journal Historical', with a description: 'Searchable collection of articles published in Louisville's Courier-Journal, offering insights into the past and covering the years from 1830 to 2000.' Below the description is another 'Access Now' button.

On the next page, enter your thirteen digit Barcode Number that is on the back of your library card, just under the barcode. Then enter your password, and click 'Login'

If you do not have a password, follow the directions on the first page of these directions.

The screenshot shows the login page for the Louisville Free Public Library. At the top, there is a blue navigation bar with links for 'Language', 'Branch', and 'Large Text'. Below this is the library's logo, which features a stylized building with colorful columns and the text 'LOUISVILLE FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY'. A secondary navigation bar contains links for 'LFPL Home Page', 'Search Catalog', 'My Account', and 'Help'. The main content area includes a link to 'register now' for non-registered users, a prompt to enter a barcode number and password, and a note to call JustAsk at 574-1611 for assistance. There are two input fields: 'Username or Barcode' and 'Password'. Below the 'Username or Barcode' field is a 'Create Username' link, and below the 'Password' field is a 'Forgot your password?' link. A blue 'Log In' button is positioned below the password field. At the bottom of the page, there is a note: 'Placing a request will log you into the system. Don't forget to log out.'

You are now on the Courier Journal archive homepage.

Next, enter keywords based on what information you are seeking.

Note: you'll have to experiment with the keywords to find the info you seek. For obituaries, enter the persons last name first, then year died (if you know this—but—it really helps if you have the death year), then the word 'death'.

Also: if you know the persons occupation, enter that after the last name, such as 'architect'.

Then, hit the 'Enter' key.

Again, you'll need to input various combinations of keywords in order to find the info you seek. This can be a frustrating, time-consuming process.

The screenshot shows the ProQuest website interface for the Louisville Courier Journal archive. At the top, the ProQuest logo is on the left, and navigation icons are on the right. The main heading is "ProQuest Historical Newspapers: Louisville Courier Journal". Below this are links for "Basic Search", "Advanced Search", "Publications", and "Change databases". A large search bar is centered, with the placeholder text "Enter search terms..." and a magnifying glass icon on the right. A red circle highlights the search bar, and a red arrow points to it from the text above. Below the search bar, there is a "Search tips" link. The page content includes a description of the newspaper's coverage (1830-2000), a "View title list" link, and sections for "Subject coverage" and "Included databases". The "Subject coverage" section lists: Historical regional, national and international news, and Multidisciplinary. The "Included databases" section lists two ProQuest Historical Newspapers: Louisville Courier Journal (1830-1922) and (1923-2000). On the right side, there is a "Want to Learn More?" section with links to search help, support center, and contact support. Below that is a "Search tip" section.

On the next page, a list of articles appears. You'll need to scroll down this list to determine if the info you seek is indicated. If it is, then click on the article and it will appear. If the info is not here, then re-input keywords to try and be more specific on the search. Again, this can be frustrating since you might have to do this several times to find exactly what you are seeking.

The screenshot shows the ProQuest interface for 'ProQuest Historical Newspapers: Louisville Courier Journal'. The search query is 'hutchings architect death'. The results page shows 191 results, sorted by Relevance. A red circle highlights the first result: 'Leading Architect Yields to Death' from the Courier-Journal (1869-1922), Louisville, Ky. [Louisville, Ky.] 18 Jan 1916: 1. The text of this result is highlighted in yellow. Below it are two other results from December 1948 and December 1958, also with yellow highlights in their titles and snippets. A red arrow points from the text above to the highlighted title of the first result.

FINE NEW FACTORY: To Be Built By J. M. Robinson, Norton & Co. Two Burglars Make Their Presence Felt In New Albany

To help your search, on the left hand side of the webpage, there is a 'Date Range' search feature.

Click on 'Select a Date Range', and then input the month / day / year you are seeking.

If you do not know the specific date, but know the year, then I suggest entering a two year date range as follows:
01/01/1890 to 12/31/1892.

This might narrow the articles to be reviewed.

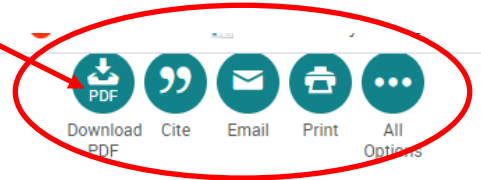

The screenshot shows a search results page for the query "hutchings architect depth". The page displays 191 results. On the left side, there is a sidebar with various filters. The "Publication date" filter is expanded, showing a bar chart for the years 1846-1989. Below the chart, there is a "Date range" section with "From:" and "To:" input fields, both containing "yyyy-mm-dd" as a placeholder. A red circle highlights this section, and a red arrow points from the text above to the "Update" button next to the "To:" field. The main results area shows several articles, including "Leading Architect Yields To Death" (18 Jan 1916), "December 22, 1948 (Page 20 of 40)" (22 Dec 1948), "December 1, 1958 (Page 17 of 30)" (01 Dec 1958), "FINE NEW FACTORY: To Be Built By J. M. Robinson, Norton & Co. Two Burglars Make Their Presence Felt In New Albany" (12 Feb 1898), and "May 20, 1951 (Page 31 of 134)" (20 May 1951). Each result includes a preview of the article's content.

Once you find the article you are searching for, click on 'Download PDF' in order to save the article to your computer or click one of the other functions such as "Print' or 'Email'.

And, on the right hand side, there is a list of suggested related articles that you might want to click on to review
