David L. (David Love) Armstrong, 1941-
Papers, 1974-2003

Scope and Content Note

Collection contains the professional papers of David L. Armstrong, a prominent Kentucky lawyer and politician. Records are in roughly chronological order, and arranged by the office Armstrong held at the time of their creation or relevance. Papers are almost exclusively related to Armstrong's professional career and offices; there is virtually no information concerning his private life.

Series 1 contains records related to Armstrong's time as Commonwealth's Attorney for Jefferson County, Kentucky, 1976-1983. Boxes 1 and 2 (folders 1-34) contain material related to Armstrong's membership in the National District Attorneys Association (NDAA). These records include notes on committee meetings, conferences, and documents relating to Armstrong's role as president of the organization. Boxes 2 and 3 (folder 35-84) contain Commonwealth Attorney files such as campaign materials, press releases, initiatives by the office, and position papers.

Series 2 contains records related to Armstrong's time as Attorney General of Kentucky, 1984-1988. Boxes 3 and 4 (folders 85-89) include Armstrong's bond as attorney general and papers related to three court cases, boxes 4 and 5 (folders 90-109) contain subject files created by Armstrong, and boxes 5-7 (folders 110-318) contain material related to the election campaign, including lists of election resources in various counties, campaign issues, and appearances and speeches by Armstrong.

Series 3 contains records related to Armstrong's unsuccessful run for the position of Kentucky Lieutenant Governor in 1987. Boxes 7 and 8 (folders 319-342) include folders with campaign information, information about voters, and pro-Armstrong campaign material.

Series 4 contains records related to Armstrong's time as Jefferson County Judge/Executive, 1989-1999. This was the chief executive position for Jefferson County, Kentucky, until the 2003 merger of Jefferson County and the city of Louisville. After the merger, all powers of the position were assigned to the newly created office of Mayor of Louisville – Jefferson County Metro. Box 9 (folders 343-349) contains material related to the election campaign for this position, and information related to the merger between Louisville and Jefferson County.

Series 5 contain records related to Armstrong's 1999-2003 term as Mayor of Louisville, Kentucky. Boxes 10 and 11 (folders 350-381) contain election information, the mayoral daily schedule, and mayoral files related to various city issues. Also included are several publications from Armstrong's term as mayor, chiefly educational pamphlets and newsletters.

Series 6, Volumes, contains publications spanning Armstrong's career. Box 11 (volumes 382-397) contains these publications, which concern crime in Kentucky and development in downtown Louisville, Kentucky. Several reports are from the Statistical Analysis Center (SAC), a network of criminal justice agencies supported by the Bureau of Justice Statistics to enhance the capabilities of the states to interpret data on crime.

Series 7 consists of scrapbooks created by Armstrong over the course of his career. Scrapbooks in boxes 11-15 (volumes 398-422) and 4 oversized volumes (425-428) date from 1976-1986, and chiefly consist of newspaper clippings concerning crime, trials, or the office he occupied at the time. The majority of the scrapbooks are compiled chronologically, but a few are concerned with more specific topics such as the Economic Crimes Unit or the 1983 Attorney General election.

Two final folders contain campaign paraphernalia and newspapers and ephemera concerned with Armstrong's personal life. The campaign materials (folder 423) include letterheads, pamphlets, bumper stickers, and other such material endorsing Armstrong for Commonwealth Attorney and Lieutenant Governor. The newspapers and ephemera file (folder 424) contains a 1975 Kentucky Jaycees Awards Program for Promising Young Men, an invitation to a 1983 inauguration celebration for Kentucky Governor Martha Layne Collins, a program of Christmas carols, a 1959 Madison High School Graduation Program, and several news papers collected by Armstrong.

Two cubic feet of video materials and two cubic feet of photographic materials have been separated from the David L. Armstrong Papers to accession number 014PC19.

Biographical Note

David Love Armstrong, born 6 August 1941, is a prominent Kentucky lawyer and politician. Armstrong served as Jefferson County's Commonwealth's Attorney (1976-1983), Kentucky Attorney General (1984-1988), Jefferson County Judge/Executive (1989-1999), and mayor of Louisville, Kentucky (1999-2003).

Armstrong was born in Hope, Arkansas and raised in Madison, Indiana. He attended Hanover College and graduated from Murray State University in 1966. He earned a J. D. from the School of Law at the University of Louisville in 1969. Following graduation Armstrong worked in the public and private sector, including a term as a family court judge and election as Jefferson County's Commonwealth's Attorney, the local felony prosecutor. In 1983 Armstrong was elected Attorney General of Kentucky. He ran unsuccessfully for Lieutenant Governor in 1987. Armstrong then served as Jefferson County Judge/Executive from 1989 until 1999, and mayor of Louisville, Kentucky from 1999-2003.

As the mayor Armstrong supported the revitalization of Downtown Louisville through projects such as expansions of the medical district, a $111 million Marriott Hotel, Fourth Street Live!, and Louisville Glassworks. The Louisville Extreme Park, a skateboard park, was one of his signature accomplishments as mayor. The city of Louisville was merged with Jefferson County near the end Armstrong's term through a ballot measure that he supported. Armstrong's term as mayor ended in 2003, and he has not held public office since.
